Lesson 1

Another Chance

How often we wish for another chance,
To make a fresh beginning.
A chance to blot out our mistakes,
And change failure into winning.
It does not take a new day,
To make a brand new start.
It only takes a deep desire,
To try with all our heart.
To live a little better,
And to always be forgiving.
And to add a little sunshine,
To the world in which we're living.
So never give up in despair,

And think, you are through.
For there's always a tomorrow,
And the hope of starting anew.

If there are differently abled students in your class:

- Break the lesson into small portions. Explain difficult concepts with examples and in simple language. Try and relate difficult concepts with experiences from daily life.
- Pay constant attention to these students while teaching so that they do not lose their focus. Encourage them to answer questions in class and reward them when they answer properly.
- Encourage the other students to be friendly and helpful towards their mentally challenged classmates.

LESSON - 2

THE KABULIWALLAH

Little Mini was five years old and a great chatterbox. She simply could not live without chatting all the time. Her mother was often worried about this non stop talking of Mini, and tried to silence her. Her conversation with her father was always very lively.

One day, Mini burst into her father's study room. She put her arm around him and said, "What do you think, Father? Bhola says there is an elephant in the clouds who blows water out of its trunk and that is why it rains!". Before her father could reply she ran to the window, "Ae Kabuliwallah! Ae Kabuliwallah!"

Mini called out to the Kabuliwallah but when he looked at her, she was in terror and ran to her father. She had heard that Kabuliwallahs caught children, put them in their sacks and took them away. The Kabuliwallah came to Mini's house and her father made sure that Mini came out and met him. Soon Mini lost her fear of him and it was a joy to watch the big bearded Pathan talking tenderly to the little five-year-old.

The Kabuliwallah was now a daily visitor to Mini's house. They would sit and chat for hours and crack jokes with each other. Once a year, Rehman, for that was the Kabuliwallah's name, would go back to his own country. He would first collect all the money that people owed him before he left. Although Rehman was busy, he always found time to visit little Mini.

One day there was a lot of noise in the street. Rehman had stabbed a man who owed him money. For this crime he was sent to prison.

Time passed and Mini soon forgot her old friend, the Kabuliwallah. She grew up into a very pretty woman. Her father made arrangements for Mini's wedding. Mini was getting married that night. As the father was busy in the preparations, a man came upto him and saluted respectfully. At first he did not recognise him. Soon he realised, it was old Rehman, the Kabuliwallah. Mini's father told him that the marriage ceremonies are going on and he should come on another day.

He was about to leave when he turned around and said, "May I see the little one , sir?"

He still thought of Mini as a little girl who came running to him and calling, “Kabuliwallah, O! Kabuliwallah.” He thought they would talk and laugh as they used to do long ago.

Mini’s father told him again that the marriage ceremonies are going on. The Kabuliwallah then gave him a small packet of dried raisins, nuts and almonds for Mini and said, “Give these to the little one. I too have a little one like her and I think of her and bring you this fruit.”

Mini’s father could not control his tears. He realised that the poor Kabuliwallah was also a father. He called Mini, who came out dressed as a bride. The Kabuliwallah was shocked to see that Mini, the little girl he had known had grown into a beautiful woman. He suddenly realised that his own daughter would have grown up too and broke into tears. Mini’s father took out some money and gave it to Rehman and said, ” Go and see your daughter and may you have all the happiness.”

Mini’s father had to cut down the expenses of the wedding. He could not afford the millitary band and the electric lights but he was happy that his money had helped a long-lost father meet his only child once again.

Lesson -3

The Right Choice

Rakesh was very excited. It was his last day of exam. His vacation was about to begin. He walked back home cheerfully.

As soon as he reached home he put his bag in a corner, and ran towards his brother's room.

“Rakesh, don't disturb your brother. His exams are not yet over,” his mother said. Rakesh returned to his room sadly. His brother Mukesh was preparing for the board exams. His parents did not want Mukesh to be disturbed.

A little later his mother called out, “Rakesh?” “Yes, mother” he answered and rushed to her room. “What is it mother?” he asked curiously. “The table lamp in Mukesh's room is not working. He needs it. Go and call the electrician,” she said.

“Mother, can't Mukesh fix it himself? He is so good at it,” Rakesh said.

“Don’t argue Rakesh. Do as you are told,” she said sternly. Overhearing this conversation, Mukesh came out and said, “Oh! Mother, please let me try. It will not take more than half an hour.”

“No, don’t waste your time. Go and study,” she said firmly. Quietly, Mukesh returned to his room but could not concentrate on his studies. He was eager to use his electrical tool kit. Mukesh had selected each tool with utmost care. He kept looking at it. He could not control himself and finally got up to fix the lamp.

By the time Rakesh returned, Mukesh had already repaired the lamp.

“Wow! Mukesh you are brilliant. I knew you would be able to do it,” exclaimed Rakesh. “Sorry for the trouble Mr. Yadav, the work is already done,” said the mother to the electrician. “I am sure Mukesh must have done it. You already have an expert electrician at home,” Mr. Yadav said and left with a smile.

“Now stop wasting your time, and get back to your studies,” mother told Mukesh.

On the day of the announcement of results, Mukesh went to school with his parents. Mukesh had topped his class.

Mother : Now it will be easy for you to gain admission in a good college.

Mukesh : Mother, I don't want to go to a college. Father, I want to join a course that can help me to take up my hobby as my profession.

The next day he went to the Technical Training Institute with his father. There he gained admission in the course of his choice.

(A couple of years later...)

Everyone looked cheerful as they walked out of the house. Mukesh had set up a new shop and they were going for its inauguration. At the inaugural ceremony, Mukesh asked Rakesh to come forward and cut the ribbon. Everyone clapped and wished Mukesh good luck.

Lesson 4

A Visit to Cambridge

This is the story of a meeting between two extraordinary people, both of them 'differently abled'. Stephen Hawking, an astrophysicist who suffers from a form of paralysis that confines him to a wheelchair, and allows him to 'speak' only by punching buttons on a computer. Firdaus Kanga a writer and journalist who lives and works in Mumbai. Kanga was born with 'brittle bones' and like Hawking, moves around in wheelchair.

Cambridge was my metaphor for England, and it was strange that when I left it had become altogether something else, because I had met Stephen Hawking there.

It was on a walking tour through Cambridge that the guide mentioned Stephen Hawking, “poor man, who is quite disabled now, though he is a worthy successor to Issac Newton, whose Chair he has at the university.”

And I started, because I had quite forgotten that this most brilliant and completely paralysed astrophysicist, the author of A Brief History of Time, one of the biggest best sellers ever, lived here.

When the walking tour was done, I rushed to a phone booth and, almost tearing the cord so it could reach me outside, phoned Stephen Hawking’s house. There was his assistant on the line and I told him I had come in a wheelchair from India (perhaps he thought I had propelled myself all the way) to write about my travels in Britain. I had to see Professor Hawking- even ten minutes would do, “Half an hour,” he said. “From three-thirty to four.”

And suddenly I felt weak all over. Growing up disabled, you get fed up with people asking you to be brave, as if you have a courage account on which you are too lazy to draw a cheque. The only thing that makes you stronger is seeing somebody like you, achieving something huge. Then you know how much is possible and you reach out further than you ever thought you could.

“I haven’t been brave,” said his disembodied computer- voice, the next afternoon. “I’ve had no choice.”

Surely, I wanted to say, living creatively with the reality of his disintegrating body was a choice? But I kept quiet, because I felt guilty everytime I spoke to him, forcing him to respond. There he was, tapping at the little switch in his hand, trying to find the words on his computer with the only bit of movement left to him, his long, pale fingers. Every so often, his eyes would shut in frustrated exhaustion. And sitting opposite him I could feel his anguish, the mind buoyant with thoughts that came out in frozen phrases and sentences stiff as corpses.

“A lot of people seem to think that disabled people are chronically unhappy,” I said. “I know that’s not true myself. Are you often laughing inside?”

About three minutes later, he responded, “I find it amusing when people patronise me.”

“And do you find it annoying when someone like me comes and disturbs you in your work?”

The answer flashed. “Yes.” Then he smiled his one-way smile and I knew, without being sentimental or silly, that I was looking at one of the most beautiful men in the world.

A first glimpse of him is shocking, because he is like a still photograph- as if all those pictures of him in magazines and newspapers have turned three dimensional.

Then you see the head twisted sideways into a slump, the torso shrunk inside the pale blue shirt, the wasted legs; you look at his eyes which can speak, still, and they are saying something huge and urgent- it is hard to tell what. But you are shaken because you have seen something you never thought could be seen.

“What do you think is the best thing about being disabled?” I had asked him earlier.

“I don’t think there is anything good about being disabled.”

“I think,” I said, “you do discover how much kindness there is in the world.”

“Yes,” he said; it was a disadvantage of his voice synthesiser that it could convey no inflection, no shades or tone. And I could not tell how enthusiastically he agreed with me.

Every time I shifted in my chair or turned my wrist to watch the time- I wanted to make every one of our thirty minutes count—I felt a huge relief and exhilaration in the possibilities of my body. How little it mattered then that I would never walk, or even stand.

I told him how he had been an inspiration beyond cliché for me, and, surely, for others—did that thought help him?

“No”, he said; and I thought how foolish I was to ask. When your body is a claustrophobic room and the walls are growing narrower day by day, it doesn't do much good to know that there are people outside smiling with admiration to see you breathing still.

“Is there any advice you can give disabled people, something that might help make life better?”

“They should concentrate on what they are good at.”

The half hour was up. “I think I've annoyed you enough,” I said, grinning. “Thank you for

I touched his shoulder and wheeled out into the summer evening.

- ___ go fishing.

Activity

Write some important discoveries made by Stephen Hawking in your notebook.

Lesson 5

PLAY THINGS

Child, how happy you are sitting in the dust,
Playing with a broken twig all the morning.
I smile at your play with that little bit of a broken twig.
I am busy with my accounts, adding up figures by the hour.
Perhaps you glance at me and think,
“What a stupid game to spoil your morning with!”
Child, I have forgotten the art of being Absorbed in sticks and mud-pies.
I seek out costly playthings,
And gather lumps of gold and silver.

With whatever you find you create your glad games,
I spend both my time and my strength
Over things I never can obtain.
In my frail canoe I struggle to cross
The sea of desire,
And forget that I too am playing a game.

AWESOME ASSAM

Assam is a state located in the north eastern part of India. It is situated just below the eastern Himalayan foothills. It is surrounded by the states of Arunanchal Pradesh, Manipur, Mizoram, Nagaland, Tripura and Meghalaya, which together with Assam are known as the 'Seven Sisters'. Dispur is the capital of Assam. Assam is a land full of natural beauty. It has blue hills, dense forests with diverse flora and fauna, big rivers and fertile valleys. Assam is the world's largest tea growing state in India. The great Brahmaputra river flows through Assam.

Agriculture is the main occupation here. Rice, fruits, jute, sugarcane and tea are the chief agricultural produce of the state. The state also produces nearly half of the country's total output of tea. The state is also rich in natural resources such as oil, gas, coal and limestone.

The traditional craft like pottery and terracotta work, brass craft, jewellery making, bamboo craft, silk and cotton weaving and wood craft are some major sources of self-employment for the people of Assam.

Assam is also famous for its national parks. A national park is a large area of forest land. The government looks after these parks. The Kaziranga National Park is a famous wildlife sanctuary. Rhinoceros, elephants, leopards and the Indian bison are some of the animals you can see in Kaziranga. You can go in an open jeep, a car, or a mini bus into the forest to see these wild animals. If you like, you can travel on an elephant's back as well.

The people of Assam speak Assamiya or Assamese. Assam is also a land of festivals. Bihu is a famous Assamese festival. It is celebrated in the month of April. People from all religions take part in the celebrations. The celebrations go on for the whole month. Young men and women wear gold-coloured silk dresses and do a special dance called 'Bihu Dance'. Boat races are held during Bihu. Many teams take part in these races and a lot of people watch them from the river banks.

VEER ABDUL HAMID

CQMH ABDUL HAMID, PVC
4 GRENADIERS

This is the story of a brave soldier named Abdul Hamid. He was a Company Quarter Master Havildar in the Indian Army. He was a very brave soldier. He fought in the 1965 war between India and Pakistan.

Abdul Hamid was born in Dhamupur village of Ghazipur district in Uttar Pradesh on 1st July, 1933 in a muslim family to Sakina Begum and Mohammad Usman.

Would you like to know how he became the hero of the 1965 war between India and Pakistan?

It was the early morning of 10th September 1965, India was fighting against Pakistan. A Pakistani regiment of Patton Tanks was marching on the Bhikhiwind –Amritsar Road, in the Khemkaran sector of India. It had reached a village named Cheema. This village was on the Indo-Pak border. In this sector, the battle had been going on since September 6. Here, Havildar Abdul Hamid and the other soldier of '4 Grenadiers Company' were waiting to face the Pakistani Army. Brave Abdul Hamid was sitting in a jeep. He had a special gun. The Patton Tanks of the Pakistani Army were not very far from him. He could hit the tanks with his guns if he wanted to. He was a good shot but he did not want to waste his shots. He wanted to hit the tanks with each of his shots. The Pakistani tanks were very powerful and dangerous. They were approaching nearer and nearer. They were firing continually. Brave Abdul Hamid marched forward. He saw a Pakistani tank. He turned his gun and fired a shot. The tank caught fire and went up in flames. All the soldiers of Abdul Hamid's company were very happy.

Suddenly he saw another tank. He fired a shot again and it also bursted into flames. Four more tanks were seen. The Pakistanis wanted to attack Abdul Hamid's company and kill him. He was their biggest enemy. They turned the guns of their tanks towards him. Before they could fire, Abdul Hamid hit the third tank too. And there it went! It had caught fire. Flames were rising high up into the sky. But alas! One shell of the enemy hit his jeep. The brave hero fell down. He was deeply wounded yet he did not lose heart. He ordered his soldiers, "Move forward and fight on." They obeyed his orders and fought bravely.

Some more tanks of the enemy were destroyed. The Pakistani soldiers were afraid and fled. This brave soldier of the Indian Army died for his country. He was awarded the Param Vir Chakra posthumously. He will always be revered and remembered by the people of our country as the bravest hero of 1965 war against Pakistan. His village has been named 'Hamid Dham' after his name.

The Missile Man of India

Avul Pakir Jainulabdeen Abdul Kalam, usually known as Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam was the eleventh President of India (from 2002 to 2007). APJ Abdul Kalam was born on 15th October 1931, at Rameshwaram in Tamil Nadu. Although he was born in a poor family, he was an exceptionally brilliant child. His father Jainulabdeen was a boat owner who ferried Hindu pilgrims at the Rameshwaram Temple in Tamil Nadu. His father was also an imam at the local mosque and his mother Ashiamma was a housewife. He started working at a young age. He sold tamarind seeds and newspapers to support his family.

After completing his schooling at the Rameshwaram Elementary School, Kalam went to attend Saint Joseph's College in Tiruchirappalli. The college was affiliated to the University of Madras, from where he graduated in Physics in 1954. He specialised in Aero Engineering from Madras Institute of Technology (MIT).

Dr. Abdul Kalam was a great scientist. He was made the Chancellor of the Institute of Space Science and Technology. He worked in Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) in 1958 and then joined Indian Satellite Research Organisation (ISRO) in 1963. He made significant contribution to Indian Satellite and also in the missile programme of DRDO. As a Project Director of SLV-III, he contributed to the development and management of India's first indigenous satellite launch vehicle (SLV-III), to inject Rohini Satellite in the near Earth orbit. His greatest contribution was in the field of missiles. Agni, Prithvi, Akash, Trishul and Naag missiles were developed by him. He is known as the 'Missile Man of India' for his work on the development of ballistic missile and launch vehicle technology.

Besides being such a great scientist, he was a great writer too. He has written many books such as 'Wings of Fire', 'Ignited Minds', 'Target 3 Billion', 'Turning Point',

'India 20-20: A Vision for the New Millenium', 'My Journey'. He has mentioned his dream of making India a developed country in his book 'India 20-20: A Vision for the New Millenium.' His advice to the youngsters of the nation was to "Dream Dream Dream. Dreams transform into thoughts and thoughts result in action."

The Government of India honoured him with-Padma Bhushan (1981), Padma Vibhushan(1990), Bharat Ratna, including Indira Gandhi Award for National Integration (1997).

Dr. Kalam passed away on 27th July,2015 while delivering a lecture at the Indian Institute of Management (IIM) in Shillong. The whole world was shocked and saddened by the sudden and untimely death of the simple, humble yet one of the greatest man of our times.

WHERE DO ALL THE TEACHERS GO?

For a little child a teacher is special. It is difficult for a small child to think of his/her teacher as an ordinary person.

Where do all the teachers go

When it's four o' clock?

Do they live in houses

And do they wash their socks?

Do they wear pyjamas

And do they watch TV?

And do they pick their noses
The same as you and me?
Do they live with other people
Have they mums and dads?
And were they ever children
And were they ever bad?
Did they ever, never spell right
Did they ever make mistakes?
Were they punished in the corner
If they pinched the chocolate flakes?
Did they ever lose their hymn books
Did they ever leave their greens?
Did they scribble on the desk tops
Did they wear old dirty jeans?
I'll follow one back home today
I'll find out what they do
Then I'll put it in a poem
That they can read to you.

A HERO

Swami is a nine-year-old boy, who lives in Malgudi village with his parents and grandmother. One day, his father was reading a newspaper.

Father :Swami listen to this, a news of the bravery of a village lad who, while returning home by the jungle path, came face to face with a tiger till some people came that way and killed the tiger.After reading it through, father looked at Swami and asked, “What do you say to that?”

Swami :I think he must have been a very strong and grown up person, not at all a boy. How could a boy fight a tiger?

Father :A man may have the strength of an elephant and yet be a coward whereas another man, who may have the strength of a straw but has courage, can do anything.

Swami-Suppose I have all the courage. What can I do if a tiger attacks me?

Father-Let alone strength, can you prove you have courage? Let me see if you can sleep alone tonight in my office.

(Swami had always slept beside his granny which irritated his father.)

Swami -From the first of the next month I will sleep alone father.

Father -No, you must do it from today.

In the evening, Swami went to his granny and slept under her blanket. His father came and said to him.

Father-Get up.

Granny -Why do you disturb him?

(Father rolled his bed and took it under his arms)

Father-Come with me.

Swami-Let me sleep in the hall please! Your office is very dusty and there may be scorpions behind your law books.

Father-No, you must learn not to be afraid of darkness. It is only a question of habit. You must cultivate good habits.

As the night advanced and the silence in the house deepened, Swami's heart beat faster. He remembered all the stories of devils and ghosts he had heard in his life.

He shut his eyes tight and covered himself with his blanket under the bench. He put his hand out to feel granny's presence at his side, as it was his habit, but he only touched the wooden leg of the bench. He sweated with fright.

Swami moved to the edge of the bench. He stared into the darkness. Something was moving down. As it came nearer, thinking it is a ghost, he crawled out from under the bench and hugged it with all his might. He used his teeth on it like a weapon. The creature yelled out in pain.

In a moment his father, the cook, and a servant came in carrying a light. All the three fell on the burglar who lay amidst the furniture with a bleeding ankle.

Father called the police. The police was grateful to Swami as he had caught the notorious thief. The next day in the school, Swami's classmates congratulated him and looked at him with respect. The headmaster said that Swami was a true scout. The news of his bravery was also published in Malgudi Times.

THE OLD KAKI

There was an old lady called 'Kaki'. She crept because her hands and feet were very weak. Her husband had died long ago. She lived with her nephew, Buddhiram. She had transferred all her property to him. Rupa was Buddhiram's wife. Buddhiram had two sons and a daughter 'Ladli'.

The boys never behaved properly with 'Kaki'. They used to tease her a lot. Kaki would cry out but no one listened to her. Ladli was the only one who had sympathy for 'Kaki'.

It was an evening, shehnai was being played at Buddhiram's doorstep. It was his elder son's engagement. Celebrations were going on. 'Purees' were being fried in 'Kadhai'. The sweet smell of 'ghee' and spices was in the air.

Kaki was sitting in her room and it was dark inside. She could smell the crispy and sizzling purees. Images of purees floated before her eyes. She began to move slowly and crept close to the 'kadhai'. When Rupa saw Kaki sitting close to the kadhai, she lost her temper and shook Kaki with both her hands and shouted abuses. Old Kaki didn't speak a single word. She returned to her room. She felt insulted.

The dinner was ready. All the guests had started eating. Kaki in her room thought not to go until she was called.

The pleasant smell of food was tempting but no one came to call her for dinner. Thinking she is not a guest that she should wait for the call, she decided to go outside. She crept into the courtyard but bad luck! One of the guests saw her and shouted, "Who is this old woman? Where has she come from? Be careful, she may touch someone."

Pandit Buddhiram became furious. He caught Kaki with his hands and dragged her into the room. Seeing this, Ladli felt really bad. She thought "What, if Kaki had eaten before the guests. Would she have eaten all the purees?"

It was eleven in the night. Everyone was sleeping. Ladli had not eaten her purees yet. She put them in her doll's basket and went to Kaki's room and said, "Get up Kaki, I have brought purees for you". Kaki asked, "Has your mother sent these?" Ladli replied, "No, it's my share." Kaki finished all the purees but she was still hungry. Kaki said to Ladli, "Child, go to your mother and bring some more." Ladli replied, "If I wake her up she will get angry." Kaki said, "Take me to the place where the guests ate."

Ladli took her and made her sit among the 'pattals'. Kaki began to eat the food which was left over by the guests.

Just then Rupa woke up. She did not find Ladli beside her. She went out into the courtyard and saw Ladli standing near the 'pattals'. Kaki was picking the left over food and eating. Rupa was stunned. She felt sorry for Kaki who remained hungry even on a day of feast, where so many people had food to their content. Kaki behaved like this just for some pieces of purees. She was in a state of shock. Her eyes were filled with tears.

It was already midnight. Rupa went to Kaki's room with food. With tearful eyes she said, "Get up Kaki. I committed a blunder today by not serving you food. Please forgive me."

Hearing these words Kaki's heart melted. She forgave her and began eating. Kaki blessed her soulfully.

THREE QUESTIONS

Long, long ago, there lived a very brave and kind king. He wanted to serve his people well. Once a thought came to the mind of the king. He thought he would never fail if he knew three things. Those three things were (1) What is the right time to begin something? (2) Which people should he listen to? (3) What is the most important thing for him to do?

The king therefore, sent messengers throughout his kingdom, promising a large sum of money to anyone who would answer these three questions.

Many learned men came to the king but all with different answers. In reply to the first question, some said- the king must prepare a timetable and follow it strictly. Others said- it was impossible to decide in advance the right time for doing something. Yet others said that the king needed a council of wise men who would help him act at proper time. Some others said- only magicians could look into the future and tell the right time for an action.

Equally different were the answers to the second question. Some said- the right people for the king to listen to were his advisers. Others said that his soldiers were the most important to him.

To the third question, some said the most important thing was science, others said it was warfare; still others said it was religious worship.

The king was not satisfied with any of these answers so he decided to seek the advice of a renowned hermit. The hermit lived in a wood which he never left. He only met common people. So the king put on simple clothes. He left his horse with his bodyguards and went alone to see the hermit.

As the king reached the hermit's hut, he saw the hermit digging the ground in front of his hut. The hermit was old and weak. He breathed heavily as he worked.

The king went upto him and said, "Oh! Wise hermit, I have come to seek the answers to three questions: How can I learn to do the right thing at the right time? Who are the most important people for me? And, what affairs need my first attention?" The hermit listened to the king, but said nothing. He went on digging. "You are tired," said the king. "Let me take the spade and dig for you."

"Thanks," said the hermit. Giving the spade to the king, he sat down on the ground. One hour passed, and another. The sun went down behind the trees. At last the king stuck the spade into the ground and said, "Oh wise man! Please answer my questions. If you can give me none, tell me so and I will return home.”

“Here comes someone running,” said the hermit. “Let us see who he is.”

The king turned round and saw a bearded man running towards them. His hands were pressed against his stomach from which blood was flowing. When he reached the king’s side, the man fainted. There was a large wound in his stomach. The king washed and bandaged it with his handkerchief and re-bandaged it until the bleeding stopped. The man felt better and asked for water. The king brought fresh water for him. By this time, the sun had set and the air was cool. The king, with the help of the hermit, carried the wounded man into the hut and lay him down on the bed. The king was tired by now. He too lay down on the floor and slept all through the night. When he woke up he saw the bearded man looking at him.

“Forgive me,” said the bearded man in a weak voice.

“I don’t know you, and have nothing to forgive you for,” said the king. “You don’t know me, but I know you. I am an enemy of yours. You had put my brother to death and seized our property. I knew that you had gone alone to meet the hermit. I had planned to kill you. But when you did not return, I came out from my hiding place and your bodyguards wounded me. Somehow I escaped and reached you. You dressed my wounds and saved my life. Now, if I live, I will serve you as your most faithful servant. Forgive me!”

The king was happy to have won over his enemy so easily. The king promised him to give back his property. The bearded man thanked the king and left.

Before leaving, the king wanted to meet the hermit. The hermit was sowing seeds in the field. The king said to him, "Please answer my questions." "Your questions have already been answered," said the hermit.

"Answered? What do you mean?" said the king.

"Yes, if you had not dugged the field for me you would have gone away. Then that man would have attacked you and you would have wished you had stayed with me. So the most important time was when you were digging the field. And I was the most important man and to do me good was your most important thing. Afterwards, when the man ran to us, the most important time was when you were caring for him. So he was the most important man and what you did for him was your most important thing.

"Remember, there is only one time that is important and that time is 'Now'. The most important person, is the person you are with, at a particular moment for no one knows what will happen in the future. The most important thing is to do that person good because we are sent to this world for that only."

THE MAN WHO GAVE INDIA WINGS

Do you know the name of the man who gave India wings?

It was Jehangir Ratanji Dadabhoy Tata. He was popularly known as JRD. He was born in Paris in July 29, 1904. His father Ratanji Dadabhoy Tata was Parsi and mother Suzanne Briere was French. Tata's childhood was spent travelling between France and India.

Some people said in jest that he got his surname from an ancestor who stood on the shores of Bombay and waved 'ta-ta' to the departing ships.

In 1924, at the age of 20, as a French citizen, he was recruited into the French Army. A year later he was sent to England to prepare for admission in Cambridge University. But his father Ratanji asked him to return to Bombay to work in his steel plant called the 'Tata Steel Industry'. His father did not consider a college degree necessary to succeed in life. A year later Ratanji died, his eldest son and heir, Jehangir, inherited the directorship of the Tata Sons and Board.

JRD became India's first licensed pilot in 1929. It was JRD who gave India wings to fly in 1932. JRD set up Tata Aviation Service, by piloting the first flight himself from Karachi to Bombay in a small aircraft. JRD at the age of 34 was elected the Chairman of Tata and Sons in 1938, making him the youngest head of the largest industrial group in India. In 1948, Air India was launched jointly by JRD and the Indian Government. In 1953, JRD was made the Chairperson of Air India. For the next 25 years he worked tirelessly to make Air India successful. JRD excelled not only as an aviator but also as a philanthropist, educationist, sportsman, poet and sculptor. He received the highest civilian award, the Bharat Ratna, in 1992 from the Indian Government.

JRD's last major public statement was an appeal to Indians to maintain peace. He breathed his last on November 29, 1993. Do you know JRD Tata was not only the director of the Tata company but also a great human being? He made sure that 75% of the company's profit was spent on looking after the workers and those in need.

When you work, work as if everything depends on you.
When you pray, pray as if everything depends on God -

LESSON-15

The Glorious Sportswomen Of India

In India, the world of sports is still dominated by men. Women are usually not encouraged to take up sports. Since their childhood, girls are pushed to learn virtues of a good homemaker whereas boys are motivated to play outdoor games.

Even today, while buying toys for children, parents tend to buy dolls, indoor games and kitchen playing sets for their daughters, but cricket bats and footballs for their sons.

On the other hand there are many Indian sportswomen who have brought glory to the nation by winning medals and titles.

Now, things have certainly improved for women. The role and status of an Indian woman in sports have become equivalent to that of a man.

Fortunately, we have many women sports personalities, who are the role models for the younger generation; their success have inspired other girls to take up sports as their career.

P T Usha is one of India's best known women athletes. She has won many national and international awards. She was known as 'The Queen of Indian Track and Field.' P T Usha received 'Padma Shree' and 'Arjuna Award'. She was named the 'Sportsperson of the Century' by the Indian Olympic Association.

Saina Nehwal is also known as the 'Golden Girl' of Indian badminton. She is the first woman in the history of Indian sports to reach the world's number one rank in badminton. She has received 'Padma Bhushan', 'Padma Shree', 'Rajiv Gandhi Khel Ratna' and 'Arjuna Award' for badminton.

Sania Mirza is one of the most recognised faces in Indian sports. She is the only woman face of Indian Lawn Tennis, who was formerly ranked number one in the women's doubles ranking. She has received 'Arjuna Award,' WTA new comer of the year, 'Padma Shree,' 'Rajiv Gandhi Khel Ratna,' and 'Padma Bhushan.'

P V Sindhu is a rising star in the world of badminton, who is currently the world's number two in BWF world ranking. She became the first ever Indian woman singles player to win a medal at the badminton world championship. She has received 'Arjuna Award,' 'Padma Shree' and 'Rajiv Gandhi Khel Ratna Award'.

M C Mary Kom is also known as the 'Million Rupee Baby' in India. This tough lady is a five times boxing world champion and also has an Olympics bronze medal in her kitty. She is the first lady boxer to have won the bronze medal for India at the London Olympics. She is honoured with 'Padma Bhushan,' 'Padma Shree,' 'Arjuna Award' and 'Rajiv Gandhi Khel Ratna Award'.

Mithali Raj is the face of Indian women's cricket team and is ranked number one by the ICC World Women Cricket rating. She is the captain of the Indian women's cricket team in test and ODI. She is the highest run scorer in women's international cricket. She has received 'Arjuna Award,' 'Padma Shree,' 'Youth Sports Icon of Excellence Award' and many more.

Geeta Phogat is an Indian wrestler and the first sports woman from the country to have qualified for the Olympics. She is a freestyle wrestler who has won India's first ever gold medal in wrestling at the Commonwealth Games. She has been conferred with the 'Arjuna Award' for outstanding achievement in National Sports in 2012.

Arunima Sinha is the first Indian female amputee to climb Mount Everest. A former national football and volleyball player. She lost her leg after she was thrown out from a running train while resisting an attack from thieves in 2011. She has received 'Padma Shree' and 'Tenzing Norgay National Adventure Award' which is at par with the 'Arjuna Award'.

There are many Indian sportswomen, who bring glory to their families and the nation. However, our society still needs to understand that encouraging sports among girls is as important for their personality development as it is for their academics. Virtues like team spirit, leadership, decision making ability and flexibility can be better learned on the sports ground.

LESSON-16

WORLD PEACE

(Students are fighting in the classroom. The teacher enters the classroom.)

Teacher- Students, why are you fighting?

Aman-Madam, Shanti snatched my notebook.

Shanti-No madam, Aman is telling a lie.

Teacher-Stop fighting. You should not waste your energy in fighting. Use it in a right way. If you are not able to keep peace in your classroom, how can you keep peace in the world.

Aman-Madam,what does peace in the world mean?

Teacher-Before knowing what does 'peace in the world' mean,can you tell me the meaning of 'world'?

Aman-Yes madam, 'world' means Duniya or Sansar

Teacher-Good, now tell me what is 'peace'?

Shanti-Madam, 'peace' means "Shanti '.

Teacher-Good, If you want to make peace, begin it from your home. Don't fight at home. Don't quarrel with your friends, neighbours or anyone around you.

Aman and Shanti -Yes Madam.

Teacher-Then stop quarrelling and try to keep peace in your surrounding.

Aman and Shanti -Okay madam, we shall try to keep peace in the society.

Teacher-You got both the words 'world ' and 'peace'. Now I combine these words and define it to you. 'World Peace' means happiness, freedom and peace among people. 'World Peace' means 'to bring the world in harmony.'

Aman-Madam, what is 'harmony'?

Teacher-The word 'harmony' means 'co-operation, balance and co-ordination'. There are many factors which disturb this harmony.

Aman-Madam, please tell us about those factors.

Teacher-Okay, let me tell you about those factors. 'World Peace' is disturbed by two main factors. The first one is war and terrorism. War and terrorism are acts of violence which affect our generation emotionally and psychologically. The other reason which disturbs 'World Peace' is fighting on the basis of caste, creed, colour and religion. So by eliminating these factors and by respecting humanity we can make this world a better place to live in.

Aman-Okay madam, we shall try.

Teacher-Now I am going to tell you the way by which you can make peace in the world. Have you ever heard the term 'Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam'?

Aman and Shanti -No madam. We don't have any idea about it.

Teacher-Okay let me tell you. 'Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam' is a Sanskrit phrase which is made of three words: Vasudha, Eiva, and Kutumbakam which means that the earth or the world is a family. So we should consider the whole world as a family to get 'World Peace'.

LESSON - 17

THE SCHOOL BOY

The school boy in the poem is not a happy child. What makes him unhappy? Why does he compare himself to a bird that lives in a cage, or a plant that withers when it should blossom.

I love to rise in a summer morn,
When the birds sing on every tree;
The distant huntsman winds his horn,
And the skylark sings with me.
O! what sweet company.
But to go to school in a summer morn,
O! it drives all joy away;
Under a cruel eye outworn,
The little ones spend the day,

In sighing and dismay.
How can the bird that is born for joy,
Sit in a cage and sing.
How can a child when fears annoy,
But droop his tender wing,
And forget his youthful spring.
O! Father and mother, if buds are nip'd,
And blossoms blown away,
And if the tender plants are strip'd
Of their joy in the springing day,
By sorrow and cares dismay,
How shall the summer arise in joy,
Or the summer fruits appear?
